

Hello my name is Yassine i am at the same university as Jimmy wich is bachelor Computing Science.

What motivated me to do computing science study is that we can create a program who can take decision with him self and all of that thanks to computing science.

Deep learning is a branch of artificial intelligence. It uses artificial neural network architectures to learn data models. These deep neural networks are able to learn to extract characteristics from data and use them to perform tasks.

CNN or Convolutional Neural Network and is a specific deep neural network architecture that is mainly used for computer vision tasks.
